WOMAN SUICIDE NEAR WEBBVILLE BIG SENSATION

Cincinnati Newspaper Prints Lurid Story of Mountain Clan.

Just now Lawrence county is getting some unfair advertising. The Cincinnati Enquirer, noted for sensational features, gave the first column of its first page to the opening of a wild story involving the suicide of a Cincinnati woman at Jean, this county. A native "clan leader" is given as the chief actor in the tragedy. His name is not mentioned, however.

From what we can learn it seems that a woman who first came into the Webbville and Jean neighborhood a few months ago, died on July 8 by taking a bicloride of mercury tablet. She went into the home of Mrs. Hicks and told her what she had done. Death resulted soon afterward. The woman was given a very decent burial. It is said, in a fine casket and a nice outfit generally.

It is said she claimed to be married to Cecil Hicks, but was informed that he denied this and sent a note to his mother's home telling her to leave. It is said he was working in the oil fields.

It is presumed he is the man referred to as the "clan leader" in the Enquirer story. He is not an officer of Lawrence county, but is said to have been a policeman in Ashland for a time. Neither has he ever been accused of being a moonshiner so far as we can learn. He has a brother, Sherman Hicks, who is a deputy sheriff (and a good one).

It is reported that some Cincinnati people visited the neighborhood last week and claimed to identify the woman by means of photographs. From the story the Enquirer worked up out of their report we print the following extracts:

The Newspaper Story.

High on a Kentucky mountain side where a rhododendron, her only mourner, bows its head above her lonely mound, there sleeps in a rough pine box Mrs. Anna Mae Schuett, 27 years old, the wife of Carl C. Schuett, 3507 Trimble avenue, Evanston, musician.

The veil of uncertainty which had shrouded the identity and past of "Anna Mae," the young woman of mystery, who ended her life with poison July 8 in the tiny hamlet of Jean, Ky., hidden away in the wild border regions of Eastern Kentucky, has been lifted.

This stranger, whose forlorn end aroused the sympathies of mountain folk, to most of whom she was known only as "Anna Mae," was identified yesterday as a Cincinnati woman who left her home several months ago.

With the establishing of her identity there was unfolded by her husband a strange story outdoing fiction, in which the unhappy end of a blighted romance is blended with tales of dark deeds by a feudist clansman, who is declared to rule like a feudal baron of old over a clan of 75 moonshiners in the mountain fastness of Lawrence county.

Husband Accuses Clansman.

This clan leader, who, Schuett declares, is the leader in widespread illicit liquor operations, though he is public official of the county, is the man who, he charges, took his wife from Cincinnati to his mountain stronghold and, he declares, forced her to end her life with a slow-acting alternative to being killed by him when he tired of her.

This official and feudist, Schuett declares, on last Sunday drove away from Jean, at the point of his revolver, four friends of Schuett who have their way there in an automobile with the intention of having the body exhumed in order that they might seek to identify it. However, identification was established through a photograph of Mrs. Schuett and the clansman taken together, which was turned over to them by a friendly mountaineer, and which the party brought back to the husband in Cincinnati yesterday.

They also brought back information whispered to them by friendly residents of Jean that "Anna Mae" was only one of five women which the clan leader had taken to Jean at different times. One of them besides Mrs. Schuett ended her life, Schuett says his friends were told, and the three others disappeared.

To Appeal to Governor.

Schuett declared yesterday he would appeal to Governor Edwin P. Morrow, of Kentucky, through Representative Herman Q. Thompson, of Newport, for aid in recovering the body of his wife and for an investigation of the activities of the Lawrence county official who, he declares, has thwarted efforts to identify the woman he induced to accompany him to his mountain home and who, though well knowing her identity, permitted mountaineers to bury her, unnamed, in a rough coffin of pine boards on the mountain side.

To seek redress personally through aid of officials of the county itself, Schuett says, would be a vain endeavor, because, he declares, the clansman leader, his father and several nephews are county or Federal officers and rule not only the political, but the personal destinies of the big majority of the mountain folk in Lawrence county.

"If the Federal or the State Government of Kentucky can offer me any way to bring to justice this man who is credited with so many dark deeds in addition to forcing his wife to poison herself I will eagerly follow it," said Schuett yesterday. "For me to attempt to go there alone or with friends would mean death and nothing gained toward his punishment."

"Since my wife left me 15 months ago," continued Schuett, "I have learned many facts I had not dreamed of before. We were married in October, 1917, in Batavia, Ohio. My wife was Amella Mas Hamburger. Her mother lives in Detroit, her father in Cleveland; one sister lives in Amella, Ohio, and another recently was married to a wealthy business man of New York."

"When we were married I had a store at Deer Park Ohio. In later years her absences from home caused quarrels. After she finally left me I learned that a Kentucky man, whom I know is the man she accompanied to the scene of her death, was paying attentions to her. I learned that he was a moonshiner, as well as a county officer, and directed the operations of a clan of 75 members in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky and shipped moonshine to Cincinnati in large quantities for sale. This explained the frequency of the leader's visits to Cincinnati and his meetings with my wife who finally left me and went to live in the West End."

"Recently I learned that she had not been divorced from her first husband, a business man now living on Price st. in, when she married me, so in reality our marriage was not legal, as she committed bigamy."

Four men in the family drove to Jean, Ky., Saturday. This little place, hidden away on top of a wooded mountain, four miles from Webbville, in a county bordering West Virginia. The trail leading to Jean was so steep they were compelled to run the car up backward.

"Nearly every man and woman in the little settlement they found carried a rifle or wore a revolver strapped around his or her waist. Even children were armed. It was not long before they learned from friendly families among the law-abiding element of the feud being carried on by the clan of which the man who took my wife away is a leader and a rival clan. During this feud a house belonging to a member of the rival clan was set afire and three children were burned to death. They also learned of the moonshining activities carried on in a wholesale manner, and openly, because the leaders of the moonshiners were also public officials and their word was law in the community. My friends were told that any one who crossed them mysteriously disappeared."

Find Grave of Anna Mae.

"My friends found the grave of Anna Mae. It was just a newly made mound, unmarked, on the mountain side on property owned by the clan leader. There only the rhododendrons and trailing arbutus kept guard. My friends were told this clan leader who took my wife away refused to have even a kindly word said for her when she was buried. There were no services. Some one nailed together a couple of pine boards and made her a coffin and she was thrown into the mountain grave."

"These friends of mine tried to find some one in authority to permit them to exhume the body. They searched in vain. So they decided to dig into the grave themselves. They had emptied a few spadefuls of earth from Anna Mae's grave when the clan leader appeared. He thrust his revolver against the breast of one of my friends and said: 'Another spadeful and you go in there beside her.' He ordered my friends to get out of the county under threats of not returning at all."

"Thwarted in this attempt at identification, my friends made quiet inquiries among relatives of a family they knew and thus obtained a photograph of the woman who was buried there. It was Anna Mae, my wife, showing her and the clan leader together."

"Then my friends were told of the suffering of poor Anna Mae."

"It would not matter much if this feudist should kill me, if only I could bring him to justice and make him suffer. That is my mission now, and the best plan, and the only one that seems open to me, is to appeal to the Governor of Kentucky to wipe out this foul nest in the eastern section of his state."

Schuett formerly was a member of Weber's Band.

NORMAL SCHOOL COMMISSION HERE NEXT WEDNESDAY

The Eastern Trip Will Start Next Tuesday at Paintsville.

The State Normal School Commission will visit Louisa and other eastern Kentucky applicant cities next week.

Paintsville will be the first city visited. The party will reach there Tuesday evening about 7 o'clock and leave Wednesday morning for Louisa, arriving here at 9:55. The stay here will be only three hours, as they will leave for Ashland by Norfolk & Western train at 1:10 p. m. From Ashland the commission will proceed to West Liberty and Morehead.

Board of Trade Meeting.

A meeting of this Board of Trade will be held this (Thursday) night at the court house to arrange for entertaining the commission while here.

Let every officer and every citizen of Louisa give up all the time necessary to put our streets and premises into the best condition. In the main they are well kept all the time, but there are a few places that need attention.

Louisa has an excellent chance to be selected and we must present our case properly. The fight soon will be over, as the commission will decide soon after the end of the trip, so the newspaper accounts say.

Lewis, Mrs. F. A. Millard and Wm. Fulkerson. Mr. Fulkerson was accompanied to Blaine by his family.

RAILROAD STRIKE HALTS MINING

Almost Nothing Doing in the Great Big Sandy Coal Field.

Previous to the railroad strike more coal was moving daily from the Big Sandy Valley than ever before known. New records were being made every few days. Now there is so little moving that a coal train attracts attention. The sidetracks hold large numbers of loaded coal cars that are not pulled out because only a few locomotives are in service.

The same is true of every coal field, though perhaps not quite as bad on the Norfolk & Western.

If the railroads would haul the coal there would be no danger of suffering from want of fuel. Otherwise, conditions are going to grow worse very rapidly and recovery will be extremely slow. The consumer who must have coal is not interested in regulation of the price when he can't get any coal. What does the man in Hades care about the price of water if he can't get any water?

The railroad officials claim they rapidly are filling the places of the strikers and the strikers say this is untrue. Giving out statements is the favorite pastime of both sides, having nothing else to do. And the innocent bystander (the public) is the fellow who is getting soaked every minute.

The government is now putting into effect some priority rules of delivering whatever coal and other necessities that may be moving. Meanwhile nothing is done to keep engines and cars in repair and trains moving in sufficient number to meet the demands.

Accidentally Shoots and Kills Playmate

He was the stepson of Will Dunlap, this city.

FIRE DESTROYS THREE BUILDINGS

Burnam Roberts Loses Feed House and Residence.

At about 12:40 Wednesday night an alarm of fire aroused the citizens of Louisa. It was found that the large building owned and used by Burnam Roberts as a feed store was almost ready to collapse, and his residence alongside was in flames. The fire had made such headway that there was no chance to save anything. The first company soon had streams of water playing on adjacent buildings, saving all except a small warehouse belonging to the Continental Supply Company. In that building was some pipe and fittings and other oil well supplies.

Mr. Roberts has been carrying a considerable stock of feed, flour, mill stuff of all kinds, hay, etc., which he has been selling at wholesale and retail.

His family is visiting relatives in the country. He was asleep in his home and was awakened after the flames had made much headway on the residence.

The origin of the fire is unknown. One theory is that it may have been started by sparks from a locomotive that passed with a heavy train about half an hour before the fire was discovered.

It is said there was some insurance on the stock and buildings. Both buildings were new. The property was located in south Louisa, at the end of the railroad siding.

Fatally Shot in East Lynne Affray

Wayne Court House, W. Va., July 22.—Mitchell Kelly, 26 years old, was fatally shot and John Napier, 15, slightly injured in a shooting affray two miles above East Lynn tonight.

The authorities are searching for Boyd Davis, 30 years old, alleged to have shot the other two.

According to witnesses the two men and the boy met in the public road above East Lynn and chatted for a few moments.

Davis then rode away. Turning as he left, witnesses averred, he fired. Kelly was shot four times through the body. He was not expected to live. Napier was shot through the foot.

No cause for the shooting was known.

Davis is said to have dashed through East Lynn on horseback shortly after the shooting. The local authorities said he had been sentenced at the last term of circuit court for moonshining and that he was released long enough to harvest his crops.

AIRPLANE AND OTHER FEATURES FOR CENTENNIAL

Further Details About the Home Coming and Fair Week Program.

Educational Day.

Hon. George Colvin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, has accepted the invitation of the Director of Educational Day, and "Educational Day" will be on Wednesday, August 30, instead of Thursday, August 31, as announced in these columns last week. Fraternal Order Day, which was to have been on Wednesday, being changed to Thursday, August 31. Do not get these two days confused. A great treat in store for all who are fortunate enough to hear Superintendent Colvin on Wednesday, August 30, and he will surely be here on that date.

Fraternal Order Day.

Upon allotment, the morning of this day, Thursday, August 31, has been assigned to the several Masonic bodies, the Blue Lodge, Chapter and Order of the Eastern Star. The afternoon has been assigned to the Odd Fellows and Daughters of Rebekah.

Invitation has been extended to the Patrol of the Shriners at Ashland to participate in the Masonic parade, and, if they accept, as it is anticipated they will, their splendid drill and brilliant uniforms will add much interest to this Masonic parade.

Military Day.

This will be Tuesday, August 29, as originally announced, and Lieutenant Harry Roberts who will have charge of the World War veterans, requests us to invite all veterans of the late World War to be present on this day and participate in the parade. Come and bring your uniform. Outfits or parts of outfit may be procured of Capt. C. F. See, Jr., of the local cavalry squadron.

Hiram Layne will have charge of the Spanish-American war veterans, and he, likewise requests that all comrades arrange to be present on this date and participate in this parade.

Program-Books.

These books will come from the press ready for distribution the afternoon of the present week—six thousand program booklets containing the proceedings of each day during Home Coming Week and doings at the County Fair, County Fair Premium List, a copy of which program will be sent by mail to each former resident of the county, conditioned that name and address of all such are furnished this office in time. Other copies will be mailed to local citizens and the remainder will be distributed to visitors during the week.

Other Publicity Matter.

A large quantity of advertising matter has been ordered and will arrive this week. Just as soon as it is received it will be distributed throughout the county as fast as possible. Be on the lookout for this and help to give publicity to Home Coming Week in every way possible. Help us boost.

Ticket Sales.

All members of the Committee on Ticket Sales are requested to settle weekly with the Treasurer, G. R. Vinson, for all tickets sold up to date, and to the Committee of Ticket Sales, we most respectfully urge that the tickets be sold at the earliest possible moment. This is most important for the reason that the major contracts cannot be let, at least cannot be closed until funds are on hand to meet the payments, and a number of features, in contemplation will depend on the number of tickets you sell. For instance, the extent to street decorations; the number of days an airplane will be here; the kind of band we have; in fact the appropriation available for each form of entertainment will depend largely on the ticket sales. These items cannot be definitely settled on until the ticket sales, amount realized from ticket sales is definitely known. In addition we want to keep an alphabetical list of ticket holders up to date, so that ticket sellers may see who has and who has not bought tickets. Weekly settlements with the Treasurer will greatly facilitate the keeping of this record.

Sunday, September 3.

Church and Sunday School Day is to be made a memorable occasion. The speakers will be men of national reputation and their names will be announced through the medium of our local press just as soon as acceptance are received. On this day we expect to have a street parade in which all Sunday schools in Lawrence county are hereby invited to participate and to this end, Sunday school superintendents are requested to have, so far as practicable, their schools come in a body. Formal invitation will be sent all Sunday School Superintendents by our director in charge of this special feature. No feature of our Home Coming Week will be more appreciated than this.

County Fair.

The largest premium list ever offered in this county has been made up for the County Fair Section. Thursday, August 31, Friday, August 1, Saturday, September 2. Our farmers expect to do themselves proud on this occasion.

10,000 Acres Available to Ex-Service Men; Sept. 27 Set as Last Entry Day.

El Paso, July 15.—Approximately 10,000 acres of land in New Mexico may be taken over by veterans of the World War in the near future. Announcement is made from the Department of the Interior, United States Land Office that a considerable area of land formerly withdrawn under the Reclamation Act and for reservoir sites has been restored and will be subject to entry at the United States Land Office at Las Cruces, N. M.

Up to September 27, the lands will be subject to entry under the homestead and desert land laws by qualified service men of the World War who have been honorably discharged or separated from the service or placed in the army or naval reserve. Such applications and conflicting applications will be disposed of by lot.

From September 28 to October 18, any remaining unentered lands will be subject to homestead entry by any qualified entryman. Application may be filed from September 8 to September 27, inclusive, such applications to be treated as simultaneous applications.

Beginning October 19, any remaining lands will become subject to entry under any applicable public land law.

Such lands as are within the Elephant Butte irrigation district will be subject to the irrigation district taxes.

The exact location of the various tracts of land may be obtained by references to file at the United States Land Office at Las Cruces. They range in size from 225 to 640 acres.

A considerable portion of the land is in the mesa country, not susceptible to irrigation from the present Elephant Butte reservoir, but would be valuable for pump irrigation in event of the obtaining of cheap power from a hydro-electric plant at the dam.

THE CHILDISHNESS OF THE CHILD.

When a thoughtful person looks into the face of a little child he sees written there, and also in the palms of his hands and the soles of his feet, the word, POSSIBILITY. Meditate on that word, POSSIBILITY. Continue to read it and think about its meaning and you will discover that the word leads you into one of two directions: It is possible for that little child to become a great man, to be of incalculable benefit to his generation, and to leave upon posterity the imprint of a noble life. The other direction shows that it is possible for that child through neglect to become a criminal—an educated criminal—who will blight the lives of thousands of people, and increase the tax burden of the community in which he lives. It is possible for him to become a curse to his family, a menace to society, and a blot on the page of history. Which direction do you want the POSSIBILITY to take in your child's case?

The child is the indispensable unit, the essential factor, and the master in all spheres of human activity. Around the child the world must revolve. From the child society must evolve. Heaven bends to bless and breathe a benediction of infinite love upon the child—the infant king—of social destinies. The child cannot become great, useful, and powerful if the childishness of the child is taken from it; if he is robbed of the spirit of youth; taken out of the sphere of innocence, and deprived of the domestic blessings that belong to him.

The curse of this hour is the childishness of children. We haven't children any more. Babies are plunged into the maelstrom of social iniquity. They are prematurely advanced to girlhood and boyhood, and are ushered on the stage where young men and young women play the fool for the pleasure of a world of vultures. Parents are ambitious for their daughters to become social factors, and for their sons to become social leaders; consequently, they are prematurely advanced. In advancing them, forcing them, and introducing them to a world of social maturity they are robbing them of their childish nature, inclinations, innocence, pleasure, and sweet ness.

One can stand in the midst of so-called young men and young women and cry out in anguish and sorrow "Where are the children? O, where are the children?" The girls of today know more than their grandmothers knew at seventy-five years of age. Boys can teach their old, aged grandfathers.

Where are the children? The Juvenile Society of today is a curse, an infamous blot on the page of American history. It is so because parents have robbed their children of childhood.

"REBEL YELL" RESOUNDS AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Washington, June 24.—Sixty years ago the "rebel yell" delivered at the White House would have thrown Washington into panic, but it proved a treat to President and Mrs. Harding yesterday. The President came outside the executive offices to greet eighty Confederate veterans who have been attending the encampment in Richmond, and who came to Washington before returning to the Jefferson Davis Soldiers' Home in Mississippi. After the President had shaken their hands Mrs. Harding came to the west balcony of the White House, and the gray-uniformed veterans waved their caps and sent up the old battle yell. Mrs. Harding waved in response. On leaving the offices the veterans fell in line and marched to a tune struck up by their band, which had accompanied them from Mississippi.

IN MEMORY

Death visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marion McCann and claimed for its victim their son, George Edward. George was born June 4, 1901, departing this life July 14, 1922, being 21 years, 1 month and 10 days old. He was converted in August, 1921, and joined the church later on. He and three other boys were crossing the river going to a pie social and the boat was leaky and sank near the middle of the river. George was liked by all who knew him and will be greatly missed in the community. The burial took place at the old place on Lick creek. He leaves to mourn his loss mother, father, one sister and three brothers, one sister and brother having preceded him to the great beyond. George is not dead, only asleep. His suffering is over and he has gone to that sweet home which God has prepared for all who trust Him. He can not come back to us, but let us all prepare to meet him in that sweet bye and bye where parting comes no more, but all is peace and happiness. Funeral services were conducted by Bro. Liking and a host of friends were there to pay their last respects to the deceased. A FRIEND.

SOMEBODY'S DARLING.

WOMEN.

"Women are queer things, no doubt about that.

They hate to be thin and they hate to be fat.

One moment it's laughter, the next it is cry.

And you can't understand them however you try.

But there's one thing about them that everyone knows.

A woman's not dressed till she powders her nose.

"I've studied the sex for a number of years.

I've watched them in laughter, and seen them in tears.

On her ways and her whims I've pondered a lot.

To learn what will please her and just what will not.

But all I have learned from the start to the close is that sooner or later she'll powder her nose.

"At church or a ball game at dance or a show,

There's one thing about them I know that I know:

At weddings or funerals or dinners of taste

You'll find that her hand will dive into waist,

And every few minutes she'll strike up a pose,

And the whole world will wait till she powders her nose."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

We are authorized to announce H. C. DUFFY, of Harrison county, as a candidate for Representative in Congress from the Ninth Kentucky District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce W. J. FIELDS of Carter county, as a candidate for the nomination for Congress in the Ninth District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party in the primary election to be held on Saturday, August 5, 1922.

We are authorized to announce WILLIAM T. COLE, of Greenup county, as a Democratic candidate for Congressman of the Ninth Congressional District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the democratic voters at the primary election, August 5, 1922.

If all those bonds and officials at Washington would pay more attention to settling the railroad strike than to the coal situation they would come nearer solving all the problems. The railroad strike has caused coal buyers to run the price up. Coal mines can not run now to any considerable extent because the railroads are handling very few shipments. The coal operators are not settling the prices. It is done by the buyers. The high prices offered are doing the operators very little good because they can not get to market enough coal to amount to anything.

Settle the railroad strike and the coal prices will drop. There are enough mines running to keep the country going if the railroads will handle the output.

The efforts of the Washington authorities to force the price of coal to a low figure without giving the use of railroads to enable mines to run full time is an unjust discrimination. The plan is to refuse cars to mines accepting more for coal than the price fixed by those boards. We do not believe there is any law that will sustain such a course. All coal mines lost money for fifteen months previous to April of this year, and the Washington boards did nothing to help them. It seems very unfair now to lay the entire burden upon the mines. We have not a cent invested in mines, but we are close enough to the fields to know the injustice of the move just made.

The interest of the general public is paramount to operators, railroad owners or employees, but in this case the authorities are beginning at the wrong end of the task and will increase the shortage of coal. Manufacturing plants will close, fuel supplies for the winter will fail, and these things mean more to the general public than what increase in coal prices would now prevail if the railroad strike were not on.

We mountaineers do not know how wild and woolly we are until some yellow city newspaper paints our pictures in its own exaggerated style. And we don't know then. But we do know better how to judge of other matter that appears in such publications.

The U. S. Labor Board is composed of nine members, three representing the railroads, three the workers' crafts and three the general public. The board is said to have no power to enforce its decisions, yet the blame for the present situation, resulting in a strike, is placed upon that board by both the strikers and the railroad officials. The cut in wages and the changes in working rules are the reasons given by the strikers for their efforts to stop railroad traffic. We will say for the railroad labor board that it selected a very bad time for its action. The coal strike was a sufficient burden for the general public at one time.

GOOD FOR WAYNE COUNTY TAXPAYERS

In case I am elected County Superintendent I propose to do the work of the office for the salary paid by the State and not ask anything of the County Court for clerk hire or traveling expenses which will be a saving of $1,000 to the people of the county for a year. As the law now is the County Superintendent is allowed $3 per school for clerk hire and not to exceed $300.00 for traveling expenses which amounts to $1,000.00 per year, payable out of the county levy, hence you see what a saving to the taxpayers of the county this will be. This money can be well spent on your county roads.

Respectfully,
RUFUS LESTER,
Democratic Candidate for Co. Supt.

SUPERINTENDENT TO BE GIVEN ANOTHER CHANCE

Frankfort.—George Colvin, State superintendent of public instruction, has suspended judgment in the case of J. S. Adams, superintendent of schools in Magoffin county, following a hearing to decide whether Mr. Adams' State certificate should be revoked because of his alleged failure to perform his duty in conducting a teachers examination in May. According to Mr. Colvin, the Magoffin superintendent did not deny charges, but judgment was suspended with the understanding that there were to be new examinations in his county and that his office should be conducted as the law prescribes. It was stated.

FLOYD FETTERS, STEEL WORKER, DROWNED WHEN DAM CAVES IN

Floyd Feters, 27, a steel worker employed by the National Contract Company in the construction of a coffer dam two miles below Greenup in the Ohio river, was buried under thousands of tons of cement and construction material when the coffer dam caved in Thursday morning of last week.

Feters was drowned. His body was not recovered for two hours. The workman, who lived at Tygart Valley, had been placing steel rods into the forms into which the cement was poured. Without warning the dam caved in, plunging Feters into the water and throwing all the material in on top of him.

Officials could not assign a reason for the accident.

The street in front of the court house will be closed to all traffic by the erection of large columns at each end and these columns will be connected by an archway or cross-beam and in the center of the archway or cross-beam will be suspended a banner bearing the inscription "Welcome Home." These columns and the archway or beam will be handsomely decorated in red, white and blue bunting. The street thus closed to traffic together with the public square, court house yard, will constitute a large ground for the main features of the celebration and here the address of welcome and response will be delivered. Here is where Hon. George Colvin will deliver his address on Educational Day. Here is where everybody will unite in singing "My Old Kentucky Home," on opening day. Here is where prizes will be given away each evening during the week, automobiles, etc.

Airplane Coming.

Just before completing our report of progress our business manager notifies us that contract has been closed with the Big Sandy Aerial Navigation Company for the use of an airplane to be here and make flights each day during the week, beginning Monday, August 22, and continuing up to including Saturday, September 2. This company will take up passengers desiring to get a bird's eye view of Louisa and the surrounding country. This feature will cost us considerable money but our manager says that there is nothing too good for Home Coming Week, and this attraction has been added.

Clean-Up Emphasized.

We are notified by Judge Ed. C. O'Rear, Chairman of the Commission to locate Eastern Kentucky Normal College that the commission will be in Louisa the first week is August and our Home Coming Week follows close on the heels of this important event; and we may be pardoned if we here and now insist that this work of putting our town in order shall begin next Monday, July 31. Every street obstruction should be removed. It is with regret that we note the failure of people to respond in this particular, not only the streets of the city need attention, but private property, more especially some of the meat lots, the latter of which are actually a disgrace in some sections of the city. Let us all get busy next Monday morning and make common cause against unsightly and unsanitary conditions. Civic pride ought of itself to prompt us to join heartily in this movement.

R. C. McCLURE,
Director of Publicity.

July Clearance Sales To Culminate This Week

The many special selling events of the month has left the usual odds and ends assortment, and we will devote this week to their disposal.

Most all lines of women's and children's ready-to-wear are represented, and, although the assortments are small, the bargains are proportionately big, and offer extraordinary opportunities for worth-while sayings.

We are confirmed to the policy of carrying no merchandise over from one season to the next, and have marked these items so low that their immediate disposal is assured.

It would be almost impossible to list the values offered in their entirety, so we will simply ask you to come and see.

750-POUND NEGRO MAKES TRIP IN BAGGAGE CAR

Louisville.—Everyone at Union Station knew that Lilly Murphy, Shelby county negro, made train connections for Evansville. Doors on a passenger coach are not large enough for the woman who weighs 750 pounds and whose waist measurement is "about nine feet." It was necessary, therefore, to haul her on a truck to a baggage car. She said she is good natured because "if I hit anybody I can't get away."

Miss Virginia Hager Marries at Prestonsburg

Announcement of the marriage of Miss Virginia Hager of this place to Mr. Henry Webb of Garrett, Floyd county, came as a complete surprise to many interested friends of the young couple at this place as they had kept their plans entirely secret.

The wedding was solemnized at the home of a relative, Dr. Fletcher on last Friday morning in Prestonsburg. Miss Hager had been visiting Judge Jay A. Vinson and family at Garrett for several days.

The bride is an attractive young woman, an accomplished musician and deservedly popular among her many acquaintances. She is the daughter of Mr. Edgar B. Hager, formerly of Ashland, and who now lives in Charleston, W. Va., and grand daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Hager of Ashland. She is also the grand daughter of Mrs. Victoria Prichard of Louisa, with whom she has made her home most of her life.

Mr. Webb is a mining engineer at Garrett and a member of the prominent Webb family of that section.

The couple arrived in Louisa Saturday evening and they were guests of Mrs. Prichard, leaving Sunday for Cincinnati for a visit to Mr. Webb's sister. From there they expect to go to eastern points for an extended wedding trip.

We extend congratulations and every wish for their happiness.

Henry Ford Says Rules of Life Few and Simple

The following is part of an editorial in Henry Ford's paper, the Dearborn Independent:

At the end of a recent biography the subject tried to sum up what he had learned from life, and he was able to say it all in a half-dozen simple sentences. There was nothing startling in it. Nothing that would evoke a thrill. But anyone who knows the experience of knowing a simple truth, and seeing how the apparently simple thing runs regnantly through all the planes of life—anyone having this experience will know how thrillingly real such knowledge can be. It is not that the intellectual conception is new, but the realization is new and vivid. It is like old familiar things seen under a light that penetrates and glorifies them.

The purpose of life seems to be the accumulation of experience, and the greatest experience of all is to get vividly and realistically inside a principle.

Perhaps this explains why people, as a rule are impatient of the things they are merely told. It may explain the half-contempt of the boy for his father's counsel. It is happening in the world every day that all-grown men are suddenly exclaiming: "My father used to tell me that! By George the old man was right!" But the discovery is not made until the grown son has entered the servicable temple of truth through the homely door of experience. And he will try in turn to tell his son, but his son may be stubborn, too, and have to learn in the same belated way.

Of course, some people do learn by merely being told. The instant they hear the principle proclaimed, they have no need of proof or any kind of confirmation, they just instantly know it is true. It is as if they had known it before, but had forgotten, and the spoken word called to life again an element that was already there.

What Makes People Good-Looking.

A visitor at the recent meeting of the General Assembly of the Northern Presbyterian church studied a group of missionaries lined up on the platform. She said afterwards: "They are all good-looking. There were two old men who looked like they might be two of the apostles." "Well," said another, "thinking pure thoughts and doing unselfish things make their mark on their faces. Pure thinking and good deeds are better than any beauty lotions." How true! "Pretty are those who pretty do." But a good many people do not seem to know this.

"BILLY, HE'S IN TROUBLE." I've got a letter, parson, from my son away out west.

An' my ol' heart is heavy as an anvil in my breast.

To think the boy whose future I had once so proudly planned Should wander from the path o' right an' come to such an end.

I told him when he left us, only three short years ago.

He'd find himself a-plowin' in a mighty crooked row.

He'd miss his father's counsels an' his mother's prayers too.

But he said the farm was mifeul, an' he guessed he'd have to go.

His letters came so seldom that I somehow sort o'knowed That Billy was a-trampin' on a mighty rock road.

But never once imagined he would bow my head in shame.

An' in the dust he'd waller his ol' daddy's honored name.

He writes from out in Denver, an' the story's mighty short:

I just can't tell his mother; it'd crush her poor ol' heart:

An' so I reconed, parson, you might break the news to her—

Billy's in the legislatur', but he doesn't say what fur.

HOMELY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1922

Fame is a wonderful thing. Think of the bird that first conceived the notion of starting a fire to keep warm before there was any fire. You know his name, of course. Then there was the boy who really owns all the gold in the world, the fellow who looked at a mountain, saw there was some stone in it, dug up the stone, saw there was metal in the stone and figured out how to get the metal out of the stone. You remember who he was, too. And the other boy, what's his name—the chap that fixed out words that carried meaning, and spoke them at the rest of the gang so they could all converse? Everybody knows who he was. There's no use talkin'. It's very important to get your name in the paper an' get a reputation.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS.

Pa and Ma Watkins have a small general store on Main street in a very small town in Indiana. They live in a room back of their store, where Ma generally holds forth by herself when Pa is busy in the store. One evening about six o'clock burglars entered the store and worked quietly, efficiently and quickly. Pa put up his hands when told to "stick 'em up," and stood that way while the "rush" was on. Ma, all unconscious of the "stunt" going on out in front, set the supper on the table and called Pa. He didn't move or utter a sound, and the burglars were too hasty to care; but when Ma called a second time and commanded:

"Pa, come here immediately," Pa broke his silence and meekly called back:

"I can't come now ma; I'm busy."—Indianapolis News.

THE OLDEST LIVING THING.

The oldest living thing in the world is thought to be the famous cypress in the churchyard of the Village of Santa Marladel Tule, a few miles from Mexico City, says the Floral Magazine. Experts have estimated its age as between five and six thousand years. It is said to have been a sapling two hundred years old when Chops built the great pyramid. In 1903 the tree was measured and found to be 126 feet in circumference.

TABLE MANNERS.

A Texas father was dining with his son in a Texas hotel and in the course of dinner the son got into an argument with a cowboy. The cowboy called the son an offensive name, and the young fellow grabbed his knife in his fist and started around the table to be avenged.

But his father seized him by the coat-tail.

"Ain't ye got no table manners?" the old man hissed.

"But, pop, ye heered what he called me, didn't ye?"

"Yes, I heered all right, but that ain't no ground for yer forgettin' yer table manners. Put down that yer knife and go at him with yer fork."

TO RESTORE WESLEY'S TOMB.

American Methodists will be interested in the movement under way in England to restore the tomb of John Wesley, which is in an advanced stage of decay, and the renovation of his chapel on the thoroughfare known as City road, London. It is proposed to extend the movement to the United States, where there are many millions of Methodists who will doubtless be eager to participate in the better preservation of the memory of the man who founded their denomination.

The tomb, the chapel and Wesley's house occupy a site given to him in 1776 by the city of London. It is not far from the old cannon foundry on Finsbury square, which was the first home of Methodism in London. Wesley's death occurred in 1791 in the house which had been granted him by the city.

The esteem in which Wesley's memory is held by his million of followers by no means would have deteriorated had the popular belief been allowed to stand that he was of humble origin. Nevertheless, prominent English genealogists, in tracing his lineage have established his relationship with one Guy of Welswe, who was created an earl by King Athelstane in the tenth century. Wesley is descended from the same ancestor, according to these findings, as the Duke of Wellington, whose name made famous in history by his connection with the Battle of Waterloo. Wesley was graduated from Oxford, where he was a member of the high patrician Christ church.

Wesley came to America in 1735, settled in Georgia, and started the "second rise" of Methodism. The movement had been founded at Oxford ten years before. Although he died and is buried in his native land, his tomb, chapel and his former home are none the less hallowed by his American adherents.

DESTROYS SLEEP

MANY LOUISA PEOPLE TESTIFY TO THIS.

You can't sleep at night. With aches and pains of a bad back. When you have to get up from urinary troubles.

If the kidneys are at fault. Set them working right with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is Louisa proof of their merit. Wm. Clay, Railroad St., Louisa, says: "My kidneys were in a weak and disordered condition and I was greatly annoyed having to get up often during the night to pass the kidney secretions. They were highly colored and deposited sediment. My back was so painful I couldn't stoop to pull on my shoes. One of the family advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills so I began taking them. It didn't take Doan's long to fix me up in good shape."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Clay had. Foster-McIlburn Co. Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

A GIRL'S LOST PURSE.

She screamed in terror when her purse was snatched from her jeweled hand.

And hurled a modest semi-curse. Toward the fleeing, bold brigand; And when the copper caught the thief.

She seized the purse with anxious air, And breathed a sigh of sweet relief To find her treasures all were there;

A penneled note, A sugar plum, A wad of gum, A hairpin (bent) A copper cent, A button-hook, With broken crook, A safety pin, A curling tin, A powder rag, A satchel bag.

These were the treasures which she bore Around with her from store to store.

While on a shopping tour, to see The many pretty things which she Would love to buy if she but had.

The cash, and with a smile so glad It almost made the copper sneeze. She thanked him and with sprightly ease.

Tripped on to seek another store Or two where she could shop some more.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

A COLUMN DEDICATED TO TIRED MOTHERS AS THEY JOIN THE HOME CIRCLE AT EVENING TIDE.

We believe there would be more frugality in the homes if men would give their wives a reasonable amount of money for household expenses and let them have all they can save out of it for their own use; the men too would be better off than they are in the hap-hazard and unmethodical way in which most homes are run. Women would be more apt to study kitchen economy if they could see a reward ahead. It is all very well to say that the fact that they are saving their husbands money should be sufficient reward, but it is a pretty intangible sort of reward, especially when they get no notice or thanks for their efforts.

Give the women this chance to learn thrift. A nation of thrifty men cannot be born of thriftless mothers.

If you want to sow your interest for the schools on good ground now is the time to do it for the children are in need of your interest to keep their own from lagging. This is the time of the year when, if they are ever inclined to be discouraged, they will become so. Spring seems so far away. Perhaps the mid-year examinations have not been overly successful. It is the time when they need the support of your interest to carry them through the year.

It is easy to smile when the sun shines; it is easy to preach when you are not tempted. When things are going your way it is easy to look upon the man with scorn who is cursing, his evil luck. You forget that it was not long ago you were down on your back and thinking the world had gone back on you. So don't be so intolerant when somebody else has a little hard luck.

Why be in such a hurry? You wear out your heart and your nerves and you don't get so very much done either. Go at things systematically and thoughtfully. You'll find your work finished at the end of the day and yourself not so tired out but that you can be an entertaining companion to some one who needs your companionship.

Necessity is usually the spur that sets the sluggish energies in action. Poverty is more often a blessing to a young man than prosperity would be, for while the one tends to stimulate his powers, the other inclines them to longer disuse.

It is easy to be noble among noble associates. The difficult thing is to keep your bearing among the ignoble and ignorant. There is always that tendency to lower yourself to their level by striking back.

The most unpromising conditions of life may be made to yield us some good if we look for it, and the looking or it will do us good even if we do not find it.

Let the young husband and wife not grow discouraged and fretful at the defects they find in each other. Everyone has them and association will wear them down and smooth out the wrinkles.

To hope always, to love always and to forgive always—this is the basis of heaven.

If every boy and girl were as big as he feels when he graduates from high school, the rest of the world wouldn't be able to find standing room.

It's not the weather that is so bad but the people who are not disposed to be pleased with the weather regardless of what it may be.

A college education is a valuable thing and greatly to be desired, but if it fails to broaden the heart as well as the mind, it is a failure.

The only "good time coming" we are justified in hoping for is that which we are capable of making for ourselves.

False friends are like shadows. They show up only when the sun shines.

The path of success in business is invariably the path of common sense.

The doing of the common place work achieves the welfare of the world.

Do not wait until your blessings are gone before you begin to prize them.

Three things to cultivate—good friends, good books and good humor.

The other day we asked an associate what, in his opinion, our readers would like to read about this warm weather. His answer was "Nothing."

So, that's what we are going to write about "Nothing."

Did you ever sit and think of Nothing? So have we.

It is what so many people talk about at parties and at picnics.

It is what you learn after studiously reading the news of Russia, and the Silesian affair, and the doings of Washington.

Dozens of our townsmen are doing it for the welfare of Louisa.

It is the remuneration received by mothers for her back-breaking hours spent over the wash tub and the ironing board and in front of the sizzling kitchen range.

Also it is what we men find in our trouser pockets after the wife has been mending the same.

We spend entirely too much of our time doing it at school and it is Nothing we have to show for it now.

Incidentally we would like to have it to do for a week or two again.

Many of us told the only girl in the world that Nothing would be too good for her—she got it.

We bring it home from vacations, and we catch it when we go fishing.

It is this our small boys tell us they have been doing, when, really, they have been in swimming or tying a tin can on the dog's tail.

A deaf man can hear it; a mute say

CHURCHLESS CHILDREN

There are twenty-five million boys and girls outside of the Sunday School in this country. Every child in America should be in some Sunday School every Sunday morning. Every child should be accompanied to Sunday School by his parents.

The mother who doesn't bring her child into the world dedicated to God has committed a crime against the child. The father who doesn't lead his child to the altar of worship, reverence, and devotion has committed a crime against his child and against society; for he has left out of the child's training the greatest factor.

Parents who refuse to bring their children to church, and who refuse to allow their children to unite with the church and become devout Christian workers are stumbling blocks; they are curses to their children.

There is but one remedy for the condition in this country, and that is salvation by Jesus Christ. There is but one place in which that salvation can be found, and that is in God's infallible Word. There is but one institution authorized to teach that Word, namely the orthodox Christian church.

Every child should be in Sunday School and in the church pew on Sunday morning sitting beside his parents.

Children are never too young to be saved, but if they are neglected and grow to be old men and women hardened in sin they may become too old to be saved. It is extremely expensive to the government for a child to grow to be old in sin and crime. It costs millions to save an old man from the error of his way. A child can be saved at the threshold of childhood and thus save his soul and society untold expense.

The father who uses his automobile on Sunday to take his child away from the church not only breaks the Ten Commandments, but he is a curse to the child and a menace to this government.

The father who spends his Sunday on the golf links is a fraud so far as a religious influence is concerned, and he is a menace to the spiritual development of his child.

It is the business of the father to be in the Sunday School with his child, and it is the business of the child to be in the church pew by the side of his father.

Why do people neglect to bring their children to Christ and into the church? Such parents and such neglect are bringing untold sorrow and expense and reflection upon this country. The juvenile courts and the penal institutions are full of the children who come from such homes.

Parents, you are either a curse or a blessing to your children. If you neglect your Sunday duty you are a curse to them. Children ought to be in the Sunday School and church if the nation is to be saved.

"THE UNEMPLOYED"

Each day abounds in mystery to tax the thoughtful mind, and add its bit of history in lore of human kind. . . . Each problem up for solving demands a potent aid. . . . Each keeps the wheels revolving in life's perpetual mill.

To me, the unsolved question is ever as before; dumbfound with its ingestion—bewilders more and more. . . . I grope amid its fastness, and tremble at its frown. . . . I marvel at its vastness—no soul can put it down!

The question I refer to, is of the "unemployed." . . . The ones a job is dear to—but seldom is enjoyed. . . . They cry aloud to Vulcan, and Agricola's King—they crave to strike a welkin which never seems to ring!

My soul is wrapped in wonder.—It is, to help me Mike! I have to work like thunder.—I ain't got time to strike! The ardent prayer for leisure is ever on my mind. . . . I'd pour out all my treasure, for a job I couldn't find!

for Uncle John and a blind man see it. Summing up the foregoing paragraphs, this is what we find:

THE KICK OF THE MULE.

A man traveling on the L. & N. from Harlan, remarked to a friend, "Wish I could get hold of some whiskey."

"I have a quart," remarked the other fellow. He gave his friend two drinks and all at once the man who had taken the whiskey, yelled, "I am struck blind."

"Keep still," said the other fellow, "you're in a tunnel."—Jesseamine Journal.

TELL HIM NOW. If with pleasures you are viewing any pleasurable man is doing, if you like him or you're for him, tell him now: Don't withhold your approbation till the parson makes oration And he lies with anony illies o'er his brow.

If he earns your price—bestow it; when he "makes good," let him know it; Let the words of true encouragement be said: Do not wait till life is over and he's underneath the clover, For he cannot read his tombstone when he's dead.

At Sand Lick, prominent Pikeville merchant, received a message this morning announcing the death of his brother-in-law, J. N. Thompson, who lived at Sand Lick, two miles below Whitesburg. Mr. Thompson married the eldest sister of Mr. Caudill more than fifty years ago.

The death of Mr. Thompson leaves one less of our old soldiers, for during the Civil war he donned the Gray and took his stand beneath the flag of the Southland. Also, his death takes away one of the mountain's successful business men for he was formerly one of the largest real estate owners of his county. His wife is still living.

STATE COAL OUTPUT IS UP 5,000,000 TON

Semi-Annual Report Shows First Half of 1921 Lagged Behind This Year.

Lexington, Ky., July 22.—Kentucky produced 17,267,132 tons of coal in the first six months of this year, in sixty-nine working days, according to the semi-annual report of the Department of Mines, issued today by L. Blankinship, chief inspector of mines.

This was a daily output of 250,248 tons, and is a net increase of 5,020,727 tons over the output for the first six months of 1921, the report shows. The output of 1921, the report shows, was 12,097,168 tons.

"Assuming the mines were operated full time, or twenty-four days each month, the State of Kentucky would produce 72,071,425 tons of coal a year at this rate of production," the chief mine inspector said in commenting on the report.

Each of the eight districts in the State, except the fourth composed of Knox and Whitley counties, showed an increase over the production for the first six months of last year. The increases ranged from 14 to 53 per cent.

MISS BELLE BENNETT, NOTED MISSIONARY, DIES AT RICHMOND

Miss Belle H. Bennett, 71, died at her home in Richmond, Ky., on Thursday of last week. Miss Bennett had devoted her life and large fortune to missionary and educational work for the Methodist Episcopal Church South in the United States and foreign countries.

She represented her church in the international missionary convention at Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1910, also in Panama and at the council at L. Z. Mohawk, N. Y., last fall. She was the only woman member of the first commission that planned the centenary celebration. In 1920 she went to Europe locating new fields of missions made possible by the centenary gifts.

Her greatest work perhaps was that of establishing the Scarritt Bible and Training School at Kansas City. A center and medical school for training nurses at Shanghai China, was among her latest achievements.

In South America Bennett college was founded for her. It is the largest institution of the church in Brazil. Sue Bennett Memorial School at London, Ky., founded and endowed in memory of her sister was fostered by her benevolence.

Mother of 2 Clayhole Victims Near Death

Jackson, Ky., July 25—"Aunt" America Combs, 76 years old, the mother who told the story of the Clayhole tragedy, in which two of her sons were killed, is the jury which sentenced another of her sons to fifteen years in the penitentiary, today lies at the point of death, weighed by the sorrow, which she says "she can stand no longer."

"Aunt" America was an eyewitness to this battle in which her two sons, Asberry and Cleveland Combs, were killed before her eyes, and then she took the witness stand in an effort to win the liberty of her eldest son, Leslie Combs.

Her tears on the witness stand at the trial at Catlettsburg at the sight of the faded clothing of her "baby boy" were characterized by attorneys for the prosecution as "stage play."

On the little farm at Clayhole since the tragedy "Aunt" America has worked in the fields and ridden sixteen miles in a wheel cart to carry the garden vegetables to the market to feed the children left fatherless by the tragedy.

Cleveland left six children and Asberry five. After Leslie was sentenced at Catlettsburg she took up the burden of helping his wife care for the six more little ones.

French and Shade, the other two boys who were given five-year terms were her nephews.

STATE'S CRACK SHOTS TO WAGE WAR ON PIGEONS

Frankfort, Ky.—A new use for the marksmanship of employees of the State has been found in the State Capitol here. They are to shoot pigeons.

The new Capitol building here is 12 years old. Hardly had it been finished when pigeons began making their home in the crevices about the roof. Today there are hundreds of these birds and they made nuisances of themselves.

Recently the Sinking Fund Commission, which has charge of the building, discussed the situation. Adjutant General Jackson Morris, who is an expert shot, was asked to arrange for crack shots among his staff and other good shots among the State employees to endeavor to reduce the feathered population.

The Adjutant General is planning to bring a number of small bore rifles here and use them in cutting down the pest. The rifles to be used will be of the kind that carry a small bullet that will not injure the building should a marksman miss his target and hit the building.

ANOTHER GOOD WOMAN CALLED TO REST

She was always ready to help others and was very kind and thoughtful of her neighbors. She was very industrious and although at times she was not in good health, she never stopped until her master called for her to come up higher. She, like a brave soldier, fell at her post of duty. She was the daughter of Rev. Tivis Burris, who was a noted school teacher in Lawrence county for many years.

She leaves a host of relatives and friends who mourn her loss. She was the devoted wife of Rev. J. O. Black, who has devoted his time gathering souls to his master's kingdom. She leaves three daughters and one son, namely: Mrs. W. E. Calhoun, Huntington, W. Va. Mrs. Arthur Blankenship, Ynteville, Ky., Mrs. John H. die, Ashland Ky., and Fred Black of Buchanan, Ky. J. F.
